Promising Approaches to Accelerate Workforce Development for Building Energy Upgrades

Below are several ideas for Better Buildings programs seeking to accelerate workforce development to support building energy upgrades. These ideas are organized by general level of effort and include roughly estimated cost ranges required for implementation: $ = low cost ($50,000), $$ = significant cost ($50,000-$250,000), $$ = major cost ($250,000+).

Please note that these approaches are offered only as examples and may not be appropriate or effective for all programs. Please consider your own program needs carefully before deciding which, if any, of these approaches to undertake. Any modifications to your program should be reviewed in advance with your Account Manager and approved in writing by DOE prior to making any changes.
